SENATORS WOULD AVOID INJUSTICE TO PEOPLE IN TAXATION FOR WAR

Senator Simmons, in Introducing Measure for Senate Debate, Declares Committee Has Tried To Increase Revenue For War Uses But To Avoid Injustice To Rich or Poor; Conserves Revenue Sources.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—In introducing Senate bill No. 10,000, which would amend the income tax law, Senator Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee, declared the committee's purpose in revising the income tax law was to raise sufficient federal revenue for extra war expenses without imposing undue burden on the rich and future taxes on the poor.

The bill and similar proposals have been introduced in the Senate to raise a larger proportion of war revenues by direct taxation and less by indirect taxation on the consumer. The bill, however, is not a revenue measure, but a measure to conserve revenue sources.

The bill, which would amend the income tax law, would increase the tax on the rich and decrease the tax on the poor. It would also provide for a new tax on the inheritance of property.

Year's Expenditures Ten Billions.
"Before the war," continued Senator Simmons, "our total expenditures were between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year. Now they are ten times as much. It is evident that the expenditures during this fiscal year will reach something like $1,000,000,000. These expenditures are not for the war alone, but for the maintenance of the government and the payment of the public debt."
